HERITAGE SIGNIFICANCE

This very attractive building is an integral part of the historical streetscape of the Goolwa heritage area.

The front wall of the store follows the curved allotment boundary giving it a bow-shaped appearance. The store is built of travertine limestone with brick quoins and window surrounds. It has a corrugated iron roof and a cantilevered balcony with turned wooden posts. French casement windows open on to the balcony.

The store was originally built for Mr. Sumner, a baker, possibly in the 1850s for use as a shop and continues in use as a shop.

Curved front façade, March 2005

This attractive two-storey building, which combines residence and shop, is an integral part of Goolwa's streetscape and of the heritage of the area.

It was constructed c1850s for Mr Sumner, a baker, and is linked to the river trade and the early settlement of Goolwa. Sumner's bakery provided a welcome service for the town's residents, river men and industry workers.

The building's unusual design is its most significant feature – the front facade has a bow-shaped appearance (both wall and windows) as it follows the curved allotment boundary. Other construction details include limestone walls with brick quoins and window surrounds, a corrugated iron roof, and a cantilevered balcony with turned wooden posts.
