Description:

Concrete tank on granite outcrop with internal concrete pillars.

Historical Summary:

Because the railways were constructed through an arid region, a series of water schemes had to be constructed to feed steam locomotives. This is as ingenious as the Moody Rocks catchment area in Tumby Bay (Item TUM:064).

Significance:

Water was necessary to feed the locomotives. This is an example of using the natural environment to achieve the necessary water.

Description:

Cottage with random rubble stonework walls and gable ended corrugated galvanised iron roof. Stone chimney. Partly built in, raked verandah is extension of roof with simple timber posts. Multi-paned double hung sash and casement sash windows.

Historical Summary:

It is believed that the Standleys first took up this property as early as the 1860s under a Pastoral Lease, long before the period of closer settlement in this area. Mr. Standley is reputed to have something to do with the building of the Maid and Magpie, St. Peters, Adelaide and also the Alma nearby. Barnes and Inkster took the property over in 1896 and it is probably at this time that the homestead was built.

Significance:

An early cottage in good condition.

Description:

Vertical timber post and random rubble stone house built under part of a government shed. Raked corrugated galvanised iron roof and stone chimney. Formerly had double hung sash windows.

Historical Summary:

Tom Smith first owner. Built as a Government Shed. Supplied by the government, upon selection of land, it was meant to be a temporary home until the new owner could build a more permanent home for himself and family.

Significance:

Of crucial importance to the farmers who took up their land, for it provided necessary immediate accomodation until a more permanent dwelling could be constructed.
