HERITAGE SIGNIFICANCE

Description:
The structures are connected. An old stone sheepyard wall leads to the partly demolished shearing shed, connected to the Shearers' Quarters. Of faced sandstone construction, limewashed, some granite lintels over sub-floor vent openings. Imported milled timber in roof trusses. Windows Quarters six paneled with ledged doors and hipped iron roof. Quarters of Georgian proportions and in fairly original condition.

'Renry Scott went into a large pastoral venture in the Ninety Mile Desert in partnership with Douglas Gooch, his brother-in-law. Their wool shed was at Cold and Wet. The experiences here were found to be quite different from those associated with the industry in the far north. They were indeed bitter experiences in this southern country, and after several years Henry Scott gave up the Cold and Wet venture after losing many thousands of pounds in the business, which was a veritable cold and wet experience financially' (R. Cockburn). Henry Scott had a distinguished career in South Australian pastoralism and politics.

Description:
Random rubble stonework with corrugated galvanized iron hipped roof. 'T' shaped building with 16 stands along the head and lower wool room in the tail. Massive oregon roof framing with a 200 mm. x 200 mm. beam at T-junction. Roman numerals on roof framing to identify each element in relation to each other. Main joists are single lengths of oregon. Low stone dwarf walls in wool room (floor boards missing). Timber lintels to openings and timber fascia boards around building. Pen fittings and gratings are of sawn red gum.

The roof timbers carry the initials 'H & B', for Harding and Bunn, for whom the shearing shed was built. 'It is one of the best sheds in the South East' (R. Cockburn). The original owners of the station were T.W. and J.H. Boothby, but William Harding and George Bunn effected the major improvements. They at one time held hundreds of square miles of land and ran 40,000 sheep at "Tintinara". William Harding was buried near the shed in 1874.

Description:

Random coursed stonework with Mount Gambier limestone quoins, string courses and bow fronted central section. Rock faced plinth/foundation. Corrugated galvanized iron gable ended roof with large gable over bow front. Left hand wing (west) rendered with cement slurry. The rear section, where the kitchen is now situated, was built first and the front section was added at a later date. The house was designed to have an outside door to every room. The front elevation has lead-light windows and the central bow front has a double door with semicircular fanlight. Stone tank is situated near the rear of the building.

The land was at various times leased by the Cooke Bros., Bunn and George Ormerod. A small homestead was built in 1865. There were two major additions, one dated 1902.

I HERITAGE SIGNIFICANCE

Description:
An unusual structure built against a large granite outcrop. Lower walls, including fireplace, cills and lintels, built of random granite to a height of about 2.00 metres. Walls raised in sandstone above. No roof remaining, but evidence of flashing to granite. Occupied supposedly by a Chinese man who was said to have built the soak, channel and well and the ingenious reservoir in the granite outcrop, separately listed. Unsafe structure.

HERITAGE SIGNIFICANCE

RECOMMENDATION: Local

Description:
Random rubble stonework with massive stone chimney within wall structure. Asbestos cement addition to front corner. Corrugated galvanized iron gable ended roof extending into a raked front verandah with skillion roof at rear and attached porch. Timber lintels above openings. Small multi-paned casement windows with sidelights. Large sculptured fireplace in the corner of kitchen (blocked in). Verandah had floor of large stone slabs.

J.W.D. Dening took up a lease of 50 square miles in 1869-70, and he is said to have built the "Bunbury" homestead. It passed to J.R. Hutchison in the 1890's, Hensleys in the 1900's, Moseleys in the 1920's and so on.
